Walstrom: Track, field opens doors meeting Don Holst, who took Olympic oak seeds and planted them around America, something Walstrom hopes to continue in honor of Holst if the trees he has produce.

While attending a Kansas State Alumni Association event with his son, Wally, Walstrom sat next to and befriended Thane Baker, a former American sprinter and 1952 Olympic gold medalist. Their conversation covered Baker's tragedies and triumphs that Baker's daughter wrote about in her book, "Running in Borrowed Shoes."

"He's a very good friend of the family," Walstrom said. "Wally named his first child Thane, not Cleve, but Thane."

He met Ambrose Red Owl of the Santee Sioux Tribe through competing and Walstrom's interest in researching Crazy Horse. Red Owl set records at Niobrara High School and was a jack-of-all-trades.

"Track and field has made my life much more interesting, at least to me," Walstrom said.

He plans to continue to officiate and said he has no interest going beyond doing what he has done, taking care of a dog and turtles.

"I'll just do other meets and stay close to home," he said.

Axtell Ball Association seeks help

Axtell will be the host site for softball tournaments starting June 26 and running through July 2.

The tournaments will be for three age groups — Pee Wee, junior high and high school. There will be 23 games played total.

The Axtell Ball Association said parents of softball and baseball players will be needed to help out so that everything will run smoothly, according to a Facebook post. Help is not limited to parents only. Junior and senior high school students looking for community service hours for scholarship purposes may help also. The association said it was willing to sign off on the time the students spend.

The link to sign up to help is on the Axtell Ball Association's Facebook page.
