

Minn. lawmaker, wife describe ‘horrific night’ of shootings

BY LOUIS KRAUSS
The Minnesota Star Tribune

MINNEAPOLIS
In a statement released Thursday night, Sen. John Hoffman and his wife, Yvette, for the first time provided chilling details of the moments when they were shot last weekend, allegedly by a man now charged with attempting to murder them and a short time later assassinating Rep. Melissa Hortman and her husband Mark.

The Hoffmans were hospitalized following the shooting early June 14, in which Vance Boelter allegedly dressed up like a police officer and shot them multiple times in the entryway of their Champlin home.

In their statement, the Hoffmans said they haven’t been able to release much information until now because they were receiving medical care. But they said they wanted to offer “more clarity of what happened.”

The couple said they returned home Friday evening with their adult daughter, Hope, after attending the DFL Humphrey-Mondale Dinner. At 2 a.m., they said, all three were awakened by “pounding on the front door” and shouting from someone who said he was a police officer and wanted to come in. The three went to the door and opened it to the gunman, they said. John Hoffman “lunged” at the gunman, whose weapon was pointed at him, and was shot nine times. As he fell, Yvette

Hoffman reached out to push the gunman away and close the door, but she was shot through the door eight times.

Hope Hoffman locked the door and then called 911, telling the operator that Sen. John Hoffman had been shot in his home.

“Her brave actions and quick thinking triggered the notice to public safety officials that a politically-motivated act was potentially underway,” the couple said of Hope.

According to the federal complaint, Boelter was wearing a hyper-realistic mask and what appeared to be a police uniform, and was shining a flashlight into the house. Numerous bullets were found inside the home, including some lodged in an Amazon package and a toaster, according to a search warrant filed this week.

The Hoffmans said they were “heartbroken” over the Brooklyn Park murders of the Hortmans. They said Hope had gone to school with the Hortmans’ daughter Sophie.

“We know that they – along with Colin Hortman – will have each other’s support as we all work through the devastating consequences of that horrific night,” the Hoffmans said.

The couple said they have been “uplifted by the prayers and support from so many” across the state and nation.

“Choosing to work in the public sector, even in as limited a way as John’s career as a senator, has always meant sacrificing a level of privacy,” the Hoffmans said. “But now we are grappling with the reality that we live in a world where public service carries such risks as being targeted because someone disagrees with you or doesn’t like what you stand for.

“As a society, as a nation, as a community, we must work together to return to a level of civility that allows us all to live peacefully.”

Gov. Tim Walz said Thursday that Yvette Hoffman would soon be released from the hospital, which spokespeople declined to confirm. John Hoffman remained hospitalized Thursday in serious but stable condition.

Housing & Community Development Department (HCDD) U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD)

Substantial Amendments to Annual Action Plans, Consolidated Plan and Uniform Relocation Act (URA)

Summary

The City of Kansas City’s Housing and Community Development Department has amended its Annual Action Plans, 2022-2026 Consolidated Plan and the Uniform Relocation Act (URA).

The 5-year Consolidated Plan contains information on housing needs, market conditions, goals, and multiyear strategies and objectives for addressing the City’s housing and community development needs. The plan was constructed on a strategic framework which emphasized building upon existing area planning and resident consensus, increasing homeownership, support for community development activities, increasing access to affordable housing, continuing a strong homelessness prevention and rapid re-housing program, and developing sustainable management capacity to initiate large-scale development projects.

Annual Action Plans are mandated by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) which outlines local affordable housing and community development needs and identifies strategies for addressing them. The plan identifies activities that the City expects to undertake through direct action or through the provision of funding to other entities. In addition, the Annual Action Plan includes the City’s application for the federal grants received from HUD. These grants, the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) and the HOME Investment Partnership (HOME), fund the majority of the affordable housing and neighborhood improvement programs provided by the City.

The URA establishes minimum requirements for the acquisition of real property and the displacement of persons from their homes as a result of acquisition, rehabilitation or demolition for a federally-funded project. This Act protects people who are displaced by a federally assisted project, regardless of their income. Details on how to comply with URA can be found in HUD Handbook 1378. This document describes general policies and procedures. However, it is not all inclusive of URA requirements to which the development team must adhere. It is a high-level overview of the City of Kansas City Missouri’s oversight. Please refer to the Federal Register 49 CFR Part 24 for details.
