Miller Pest Control

In March, April and May you may see swarms of winged insects around your home, but aren't sure what they are. Most likely they are swarms of flying ants or subterranean termites. To prevent or solve a problem with either of these, call Miller Pest Control, serving Topeka and Lawrence.

Larry and Sheryl Miller own and operate Miller Pest Control and Lawrence.

Subterranean termites usually emerge on warm humid days and often appear after rain storms. They are also strongly attracted to lights. Termites are considered pests because they use finished lumber for food. They attack buildings, furniture, fences, utility poles, pilings, and other wooden objects.

Termite Bait Stations. It's environmentally safe and very effective in eliminating active termite colonies. Bait stations are placed 8 to 10 feet apart around the entire house or building foundation and the stations are checked every 30 to 90 days.

They also can injure living trees and shrubs. If termites enter your home or building, they will also destroy products other than wood, such as paper, books, clothing, shoes and leather items. Miller Pest Control offers comprehensive termite control.

When termites enter the bait stations, they encounter two kinds of toxicants. One is an insect growth regulator that will render the colony unable to reproduce. The other toxicant is ingested by termites to eradicate them. Ants are also a nuisance this time of year. Miller Pest Control uses an ant bait arena that is very effective in eliminating ants. It also brings positive comments from customers who are happy with the results.

Miller Pest Control also offers a wide range of general pest control services, including elimination of roaches and rodents. Miller Pest Control offers one-time, monthly, bi-monthly and quarterly services in Topeka and Lawrence.

Larry and Sheryl Miller, husband-and-wife owners of the company, are both certified pest exterminators, who have owned and operated Miller Pest Control in Topeka since 1985. For termites, they prefer the Hex-Pro
